This copy of loose sheets I found wrapped in a large 4<sup>to</sup> sheet of blue paper containing a letter from D. Bruno Echenique and 281 corrections to be made in the work. His letter is by way of excuse for giving this additional trouble. —

I only came across this interesting document to day.

4 August 1921. V.C.

N.B. 1284 & 1285 of my "Attempt" refer to this work: I apparently overlooked 1285 when, by order of the Princess, I withdrew ~~the~~ several of the duplicates from the library, duplicates which at a later date she presented to me; <sup>so both went to America.</sup> As 1285 was one of the few copies (out of the 10 printed) which have not the names of the persons for whom they were intended printed on the first page, I imagine this was an extra copy struck off to be sent to Don Bruno for correction, but that he did not like to spoil so beautifully printed a work by corrections, and so sent back the work with his corrections on the paper on which he also wrote his letter.

Naturally, I do not know if the corrections were actually made in the other copies, as I have only come across <sup>corrections</sup> ~~them~~ to day. <sup>the other copies are no longer under my c</sup> 4/8/21. V.C.
